eKnowledge, NFL Players Extend Multi-Million Dollar Donation

A group of National Football League players and eKnowledge Corp. are continuing their multi-million dollar sponsorship of $200 SAT and ACT test preparation programs to all active-duty, reserve, and retired military members and their families. Those who request the donated materials need only pay shipping and handling costs of packaging, processing and shipping.

Some of the patriotic NFL players who have pledged to support the eKnowledge donation program for 2007 include: Jon Bradley (Detroit Lions), Scott Young (Philadelphia Eagles), Garrick Jones (Calgary Stampeders), Corey Williams (Green Bay Packers), Jason Radar (Miami Dolphins), and Ahmaad Galloway.

Now in its third year, this generous eKnowledge/NFL player sponsorship effort has donated more than 60,000 free SAT/ACT test preparation programs to military service members and their families worldwide. In response to the donation eKnowledge and the NFL players have received tens of thousands of thank-you letters from military service members and dependents who have received the highly valuable free test preparation programs. One note was even postmarked from Africa, where a servicemember was stationed.

“As a military parent residing in Kenya,” Air Force Maj. Douglas McClain wrote, “I truly appreciate the opportunity to obtain these products for my daughter who attends the international school here. “This program will guarantee that she has current material to prepare for the SAT and ACT,” the note said. “Thanks from an Air Force major who is trying to serve his country and also take care of his family.”

Servicemembers and families interested in receiving free eKnowledge products under the sponsorship can complete an online request form at <http://sat.eknowledge.com/military> or by visiting <http://www.militaryhomefront.dod.mil> by following the link to "Donation: VSG/NFL Players".
